Success of custom poppies

TWO WOMEN in Horsforth are selling customised poppies ahead of Remembrance Day.

Nell Waterhouse, 80, and her friend Hilda Peters, 90, collect for the British Legion poppy appeal at Morrisons in Horsforth, and have done for many years. Mrs Waterhouse customises the poppies and people come from all over Leeds to get one of her poppies.

She spends weeks before the launch making hundreds of customised poppies and they always sell out within the first few days and after a long day collecting she goes home in the evening and makes more sparkly poppies. They were both honoured with a Good Citizen award for their dedication to the appeal.
